PRIME MINISTER'S BIRTHDAY

Shri NARENDRA MODI ji

Narendra Damodardas Modi (born 17 September 1950) is an Indian politician serving as the current prime minister of India since 26 May 2014. Modi was the chief minister of Gujarat from 2001 to 2014 and is the Member of Parliament (MP) for Varanasi. He is a member of the Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP) and of the Rashtriya Swayamsevak Sangh (RSS), a right-wing Hindu nationalist paramilitary volunteer organisation. He is the longest-serving prime minister outside the Indian National Congress.

Narendra Modi is a globally recognized leader celebrated for his strong leadership qualities. Many world leaders view him as a successful and influential figure. His bold and resolute actions have contributed significantly to his success as India's Prime Minister. What sets him apart is his clear vision, mission, and plans to uplift the country, which resonate with the people and earn their votes.

As India's Prime Minister, Narendra Modi is known for his optimism and deep-rooted religious beliefs and traditions. His remarkable tenure, one of the longest outside the Congress party, attests to his leadership prowess. Under his guidance, the Bharatiya Janata Party currently governs 17 Indian states and 2 Union territories. However, it's important to note that his right-wing political ideology garners both praise and criticism simultaneously.

In summary, Narendra Modi's exceptional leadership, characterized by his unwavering determination and clear goals for India's progress, has made him a respected global figure. His religious convictions and the party's substantial presence in various regions underscore his influence in Indian politics. Nonetheless, his right-leaning political stance sparks mixed reactions from the public and experts alike.

Hindi Diwas

हिन्दी दिवस is celebrated in India to commemorate the date 14 September 1949 on which a compromise was reached—during the drafting of the Constitution of India—on the languages that were to have official status in the Republic of India.[1][2] The compromise, usually called the Munshi-Ayyangar formula, after drafting committee members K. M. Munshi and N. Gopalaswami Ayyangar, was voted by the Constituent Assembly of India after three years of debate between two opposing camps. The Hindi protagonists wanted Modern Standard Hindi register of the Hindustani language in Devanagari script to be the sole "national language" of India (replacing the British era Hindustani of Perso-Arabic script); the delegates from South India preferred English to have a place in the Constitution The Munshi-Ayyangar formula declared Hindi to be the "official language" of India's federal government; English to be an associate official language for 15 years during which Hindi's formal lexicon would be developed; and the international form of the Hindu–Arabic numerals to be the official numerals. The compromise resolution became articles 343–351 of India's constitution, which came into effect on 26 January 1950.

In 1965, when the 15 years were up, the Government of India announced that English would continue to be the "de facto formal language of India."

DIGVIJAY DIVAS

"Digvijay Divas" is a term that might refer to a specific celebratory day or event, though it isn't widely recognized in mainstream global culture. The term "Digvijay" originates from Sanskrit, where "Dig" means "direction" and "Vijay" means "victory," collectively translating to "conquest" or "victory over all directions." This could imply a day celebrating triumph or success in various fields. Such an event might be observed in certain regions or communities to honor an individual's or group's achievements, either in a historical, cultural, or personal context. If this refers to a specific event or celebration within a community or organization, it would typically involve activities that highlight achievements, foster unity, and inspire continued success. If you have more specific details or context about this term, I would be happy to provide a more detailed explanation.

Engineering Day

Engineer's day is celebrated in India on 15th September, in memory of Sir Mokshgundam Visweswarayya. He was the most prominent civil engineer in India in the 20th Century. He was born in Andhra Telugu Brahmin Family. He built the (then) Asia's best dam on Kaveri river. He was a statesman and a scholar. His contribution to India's economy and respect all over the world is unparalleled and limitless. He was also knighted by British Queen.

Celebrating Engineer's day isn't just to brood over our past greats. It is celebrated further for emphasizing the importance of role of engineers in building India's future. India is a developing nation. And, for development we need infrastructure. We need power. We need new inventions and innovations. We need modern technology in all fields.

We want to travel in 21st century with telecom gadgets, better fuels, new machines, digital and information technology. All these require a lot of expert and capable engineers. Our nation expects to have tens of millions of workforce in the next five years.

In the last three decades India progressed and earned fame in the world with its smart and intelligent engineers spread all over the world. Let's also learn from an engineer's role. Engineer conceives, designs, implements, checks and installs it. Engineer's work proceeds in a planned and discipline way. An engineer builds tools to make future work easier and reach higher levels of maturity and capability.

In real life too, we need to conceive a goal for our life, design the steps and follow the plan overcoming the hurdles and setbacks. Improve upon our living standard. Always be with positive approach and thinking attitude. An engineer achieves a solution by breaking down a problem and step wise incremental improvements. In our life, we can break the path towards our life goal into achievable milestones and achieve them without fail.

There is a funny way of praising an Engineer. A joke goes as follows. An engineer had gone to Hell after his death. He felt it too hot and miserable. He worked to make AC work. Then he did the TV and the Hell Social Media. He built whatever needed for his comfortable living in the Hell. Everyone is happy.

One day God visits Hell and sees everyone happy and cool. He called the Devil and asked him about it. The Devil told the God about the engineer's deeds. God realized the mistake and asked the Devil to return the engineer. Devil said no. God angrily said that he would sue the Devil. Devil happily smiled and said "Where you will get a lawyer? "

So an engineer transforms our outdated and obsolete lifestyles into more fashioned and elegant ones. Three cheers to Engineers !

Paryushan

PARV

Jain Paryushan is one of the most significant religious observances in Jainism, often referred to as the “king of festivals” in India and worldwide. This year, the festival begins today i.e., August 31, 2024, and will continue until September 7, 2024.

Paryushan is a festival of forgiveness, with the word itself meaning ‘abiding’ or ‘coming together.’ It is observed annually in the month of Bhadrapad, between the fifth and fourteenth day of the bright fortnight, known as Shukla Paksha, according to the Hindu calendar.

The primary goal of Paryushan is to attain Nirvana or Salvation for the soul. During this time, Jain monks and nuns cease their travels and stay with the community to guide them on the path of spiritual wisdom.

Paryushan aims to eradicate negative thoughts, energies, and habits.

It is also known as Parv Dhiraj. During this time, Jain devotees emphasize the basic vows of Right Knowledge, Right Faith, and Right Conduct. Fasting for up to 31 days, consuming only boiled water before sunrise and after sunset, helps culminate spiritual energy within Jain households. The festival brings joy and prosperity and encourages forgiveness, encapsulated in the principle, “Our love extends to all human beings, and our hatred is non-existent. We wish prosperity for everyone and happiness in this world.”

Mysterious Place

In the heart of ancient Greece, nestled amidst the towering peaks of Mount Parnassus, there was a small yet vibrant village named Lyriath. This village was known for its sacred olive groves and the mysterious Oracle of Lyriath, whose prophecies were whispered among the rustling leaves. The villagers believed the Oracle was a gift from Apollo, the god of prophecy, music, and healing. One day, a young boy named Thalos, known for his insatiable curiosity, ventured into the grove, drawn by the ethereal glow that seemed to beckon him. As he approached the Oracle, he stumbled upon an ancient lyre, its strings shimmering under the moonlight. Entranced, Thalos plucked a string, and immediately, a melodious tune filled the air, awakening the spirits of the forest. The Oracle appeared before him, revealing that Thalos was destined to become a great bard whose music would unite warring factions and bring peace to the land. With the lyre as his guide, Thalos embarked on a journey across Greece, his songs weaving tales of harmony and inspiring unity wherever he roamed. His legend lived on, reminding future generations of the power of music and the enduring gift of the gods.

The Story of Lord Ganesha and the Race Around the World

Once upon a time, Lord Ganesha and his brother Lord Kartikeya were asked to race around the world. Lord Kartikeya started out on his peacock while Lord Ganesha rode on his mouse. Lord Kartikeya flew off on his peacock to finish the race, while Lord Ganesha stayed put. When asked why, Lord Ganesha said, "My parents are my world, and I won't leave without their permission." Lord Shiva and Goddess Parvati were so proud of their wise son that they crowned him the winner of the race.
